Lorenzo Luini has a decisive and clever personality, revealed in the candour of his works, using modern techniques he is not afraid to tackle the ancient topic of human fear.

A human trait visually developed by means of bursts of colour, suggesting tumultuous movements instantly building up a strong psychic force.

The symbolic action of the twists and turns of colour lead into endless fantasy landscapes, revealing the hypothesis of a cosmic flux.

Luini "feels" the relentless flow of time and the threatening mystery of the universe.

After all, is life not perhaps a faint sigh destined to fade away in the fleeting aspiration of eternity?
